

There's not much to using Nebo Tracker, and that's how it should be! Easy.

Here are few things you should know...

1 You don't need to run Nebo on your phone or tablet.

With Nebo Tracker on board, you don't need to run Nebo on your phone, or even have your phone with you. If your battery is flat or you're out of data (or you've dropped your phone overboard), no problem. Nebo Tracker will log your voyage and send you the Daily Log Report when you've completed your voyage.

You can still run Nebo to take photos or look for other boats, but otherwise you can keep your phone in your pocket.

2 Data Usage

Relax! Nebo Tracker comes with a dedicated SIM card, and all data usage is included in the monthly fee. So you can use your phone's data allowance for whatever else you fancy. Nebo Tracker is completely independent and doesn't use your other data plans.

3 Underway with Nebo Tracker

When Nebo Tracker detects that you've started a voyage, you'll get an email letting you know. So if you get the email and you're not on the boat, you may want to call the local authorities! Your boat is on the move...

If you start Nebo, you'll see that you're automatically in "Underway" mode. You'll see the boat's speed etc. and the track you've taken. Note that the track is updated every 30 seconds, so there will often be a gap between your boat's location and the track.

4 Privacy Settings

With Nebo Tracker on board, your privacy settings remain the same. If you don't want to be identified on the water, you can still set your visibility accordingly.

5 Something not working?

We're here to help. Drop an email to support@nebo.global and let us know what's going on.

Before you do, make sure Nebo Tracker has been installed correctly, and make sure you've registered your Nebo Tracker in the Nebo app (see the Installation Guide).
